Constructed as branches for Regions Bank (previously Union Planters Bank and American National Bank), these facilities were designed to reflect details of the nineteenth century courthouse in Princeton, Indiana.

The building sits at a 45-degree angle on its site to accentuate the arched end of its drive-through, which houses four drive-up lanes and an ATM machine.

Daylight passes through the entry tower windows onto the check writing station below. Glass enclosed office spaces promote visibility between the employees and customers.

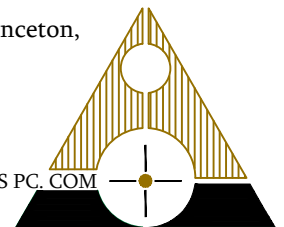

The story and half high entry tower defines the front entry into the building. Architecture Plus also did the interior design and selected the furniture.

Old National Bank, Mt. Carmel, IL

Old National Bank needed an assessment of a beautiful historic bank located in downtown Mount Carmel.

For the building's exterior, we investigated the structural integrity of the existing terra cotta cladding, the roofing system, and the site drainage.

Architecture Plus also determined the best way to clean the interior marble flooring.

Electrical and Mechanical systems were reviewed for code compliance and energy use.

Energy comparisons were made between the cost of replacing existing equipment with new, more efficient systems versus just adding more insulation to the roof and walls.

This facility, located on the rapidly expanding west side of Evansville near the University of Southern Indiana shopping centers, was designed to meet the needs of Evansville Federal Credit Union for a new branch.

A large well lighted canopy covers the drive-up window area giving the building a "bigger than reality" appearance.

We also designed the neighbor, St. Mary's Convenience Care.
